

BEFORE

This 1970s Gibson L-5 had been ravaged by the elements, and years of playing.

AFTER

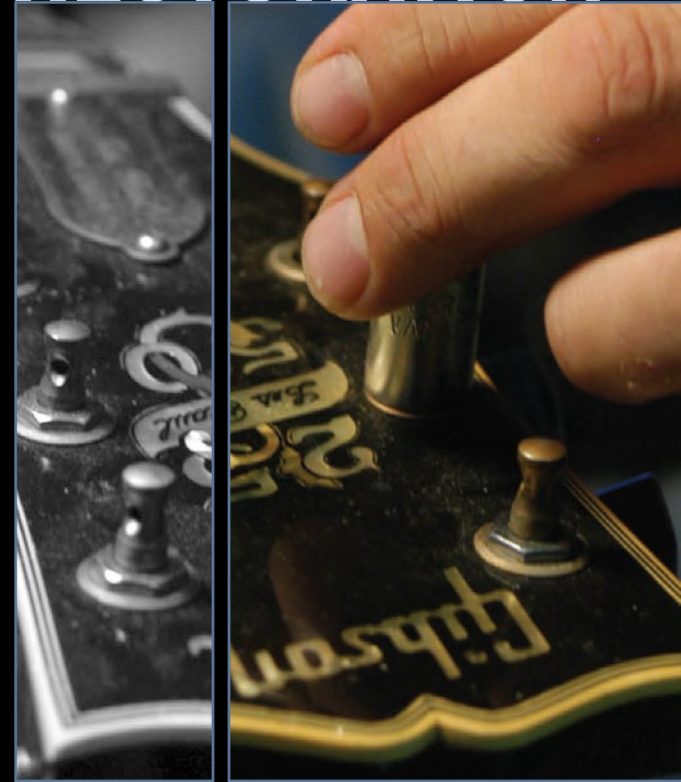

After a general refurbishment, resetting the neck, installing new frets, and a pro set-up, the L-5 was as good as new.

Time and nature have a way of weakening even the best built instruments. In some cases, even the family dog—or your rambunctious three-year-old—can wreak havoc on your most prized stringed assets. That's why there's a place like Gibson Repair and Restoration.

If you think we only build guitars, think again. Gibson Repair and Restoration offers a full lineup of services designed to repair or restore any stringed instrument to its original condition. In many cases, the end result is even better than the original. Our staff of first-class luthiers are the best in the world, and highly skilled and experienced in all phases of repair and restoration. Our state-of-the-art, temperature-and-humidity, controlled facility is also unmatched for its technology and equipment. Let Gibson Repair and Restoration bring your instrument back to life... BECAUSE YOU SHOULDN'T TRUST ANYONE ELSE.

CONTACT

If you have a repair issue, a simple phone call to Gibson Repair and Restoration can offer honest, clear-cut solutions. We evaluate each situation on an individual basis, and offer reliable time and cost estimates to give you a benchmark for your instrument's needs. Once received, a more formal evaluation takes place and a detailed quote is prepared. No work is started before all costs are approved by you. When the work is completed, we contact you for payment, and arrangements are made to put the instrument back in your hands. It's that simple. Call or email us today for your repair authorization and shipping information.
